If the law hasn't gone into effect you could probably get away with it. But, if it has, then your friends at the library could lose their jobs.

Raelene Lynch-Eason No, I know....I was just thinking as a sort of Constitutional challenge to this idiotic hate-backed law.

Kaptin Sinnindebauchery Exactly. It's an idiot law that would fall over at the slightest breeze of a challenge.

Anna M Duran Someone has to sue though. Not sure if a library can? If they can they should. But it's an open and shut case "the government is literally supressing my free speech. End of story."
Like there's no defense by the state... what are they gonna say: "I saw a meme about gRoOmeRs!"? Lol.

An honest drag show would be cool, one that is geared towards instigating is not fair to anyone

Stella Capoccia it's NOT instigating - it's throwing a Constitutional court challenge to an unjust and hate-filled law.....

.....I'm not LGBTQ....but I had thought that I had heard something once about when good people do nothing.....😢

Maybe it would be interesting to have some men wearing kilts, or women wearing pants read stories. If I understand correctly, those are also prohibited.

Callie Boyle The bill went through four versions. The early version prohibited any cross dressing of any kind. The final version prohibit drag performances that appeal to a "prurient interest in sex." So someone would have to argue that the kilt was really, deeply pornographic.

Luckily, they probably don't need an actual performance stopped to be able to sue.

Abra Belke i think there's probably a certain segment of the population that would happily argue that kilts are pornographic but that's a different conversation.

Abra Belke The only pornographic thing about wearing a kilt in Butte is the gal who has that mirror on a stick she tries to shove between the men's legs on St. Patrick's Day.

Abra Belke I would love to use the wearing of kilts to challenge the law. They are a component of the formal regalia of our most treasured traditions!

Abra Belke I plan to start wearing my kilt more frequently just to see if I can get some dumb person to complain about it.

I would be happy to wear a men's suit and tie and read to some kids. If I don't get arrested as a "drag king", how can they justify the opposite?
